

1946

L.H. CRANSTON & SONS

Lawrence Herschel Cranston opens a hardware store in Baltimore specializing in mechanical, plumbing and electrical supplies. Two years later LH Cranston and Sons is launched to provide mechanical, electrical, contracting and services to their customers.

1960

LH Cranston establishes itself as an integral part of the changing Baltimore skyline. Applying their expertise to projects such as the building of Johnny Unitas' restaurant, The Golden Arm, LH Cranston is making significant contributions to major construction projects throughout the Baltimore area.

1980

LH Cranston proudly displays our "New Look" on our uniforms and our vehicles. Ever expanding, the Greenspring Drive facility in Timonium, Maryland was home to LH Cranston for over thirty years.

1990

LH Cranston's expertise spans more than six decades and includes a wide variety of projects including, major sport legend's restaurants, top secret operations at NSA, constructing complex medical facilities and signature hotels like the Hunt Valley Inn. Because of our extraordinary track record we have been a major part of many construction and service projects throughout the Baltimore/Washington area.

Our commitment to excellence and our focus on exceeding our customer's expectations remain our core values at LH Cranston. We will continue to rely on these values as we look forward to the complex challenges we face in the 21st century.

2007

ELECTRICAL • MECHANICAL • PLUMBING • SERVICE

Providing total building comfort since 1946

Total Building Comfort

GRAND OPENING
JUNE 21, 2007

Second generation Cranston sons, Joseph and Robert Ariosa (seated left and center), Robert's son-in-law, Bob Hohman (Standing - second from right), face the challenges of the changing technology of the 1970's as they pose with their management team.

